

Kataleifos Interview Question 12

Kataleifos:

This is a very difficult request. I don't recall anything from those (past) roles. No, I can't improvise – at this moment. We're still doing live readings (of the current play). I just can't (act out a scene now). Not even from Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf -- I don't recall the lines. I'm shy; I need the stage, the lights; I can't just act out a scene like this. Let it go. It's difficult. An actor has to be in the theater, on stage with his fellow actors. It's bizarre to try to act here and now; I can't do it.
